Russell Stannard

Russell Stannard runs the popular website www.teachertrainingvideos.com. He has over 25,000 teachers subscribed to his newsletter and surveys them on the technologies they are using in their teaching and learning. In this talk, Russell is going to highlight some of the key technologies being used in language teaching and demonstrate a number of examples which cover areas like speaking, reflection, assessment, the Flipped Classroom and teacher training. A talk not to be missed, full of practical ideas from teachers all over the world using technology in their language classes.

10.30 Break

Russell Stannard

All teachers blend their learning, but what do we know about effective blended learning? Why does blended learning work well for some but not for others? In this talk Russell Stannard will focus on some of the research into blended/flipped learning and talk about its impact on learning. How can we blend our learning effectively and what can we learn from the research and anecdotes of organisations and teachers who have blended their learning.
